

updated: 1/3/2011 7:32:59 AM

City Gives Final Nod to Lubricant Maker

InsideIndianaBusiness.com Report

The Lebanon City Council has approved tax incentives for a petroleum products maker to move into the city's Business Park. The Lebanon Reporter says D-A Lubricant will move its headquarters from Indianapolis, bringing 50 jobs and plans to hire 10 more workers.

Source: Inside INdiana Business

INDIANA BUSINESS NEWS

- Brightpoint Investing in New Facilities
- Former IURC Commissioner Joins Harrison College
- [\[AUDIO\] New Party Chair Outlines Priorities](#)
- Tourism Efforts Receive Boost
- Station Names New General Manager
- Tourism Executive Headed to Chicago
- Dentist Offices Shutdown
- Party Supplier Making Large Investment
- New University Touts Enrollment

More News...

Continued Below...

The company will invest $15 million to build a 250,000 square foot building in the Lebanon Business Park.

print email newsletters

D-A Lubricant says its current headquarters does not allow for necessary growth.

Source: Lebanon Reporter

print email newsletters